FUNCTIONS OF THE GRAND JURY

Grand juries have always been a part of the American system of justice. They are the body which determines whether a crime has been committed and whether the accused is guilty. The grand jury is composed of twelve members, who are selected from the community. They are sworn to keep the secrets of their proceedings and to render a true and correct verdict. The grand jury's functions are to receive and consider evidence presented by the prosecutor, to determine whether there is sufficient evidence to charge the accused with a crime, and to return a bill of indictment if the evidence is sufficient. The grand jury also has the power to return a verdict of not guilty if the evidence is insufficient. The grand jury is an important part of the American judicial system, and its functions are essential to the protection of the rights of the accused.

TO THE PEOPLE

Last Monday I offered for sale the Business and Good Will of CATTANEO'S GRILL in the City of Daytona. No person has approached me who has been sufficiently interested and had the necessary capital to buy the business.

I want the people of Daytona to know that I did not offer the business for sale because it was in any way unsatisfactory to me, or that what I think Daytona is the greatest town in Florida, but I had offered to me a proposition in Miami which I considered the opportunity of a life time but it was necessary for me to give my answer to the Miami proposition last evening. I felt that I could not in justice to the people of Daytona continue to conduct Cattaneo's Grill and not be personally present.

I have decided the Miami proposition. I want to notify the people of Daytona and all persons who in the past have been, or in the future may be patrons of Cattaneo's Grill, that I am going to devote my personal attention to making it the most attractive place on the East Coast of Florida. I take particular pride in saying that it is true. But there are many little improvements which will make Cattaneo's Grill more enticing and attractive to the public. I mean to spare no reasonable expense to place it on a basis on an even higher plane than it has been conducted in the past. Among the innovations will be the inauguration of a private dining room and a terrace on the second floor which will be conducted on such a plane that you can at any time bring your wife and children and dine in privacy.

LOCAL MOTORS CO. "IN BAD" WITH JAX. CHAMBER COMMERCE

The American Motors Export company, a company being formed in Florida, which had offices in Daytona previous to the closing of the East Coast Securities company, on Magdolna avenue, of which P. T. Kelsacker, of Daytona, he of Comet stock fame, was a vice president, is now "in bad" with the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, who claim that the motor company have been using their name without permission, in soliciting the sale of stock.

The American Motors Export company, organized in the state shortly after the exposure of the Comet stock fiasco by the Daytona Daily News was supposed to have had several scores of stock salesmen in their employ about the state, selling the stock of the newly organized company at the East Coast Securities company, several meetings having been held at the company's offices here.

Since the closing of the last named company, it is believed that the American Motors have no local connection, it being rumored that Mr. Kelsacker was no longer vice president of the firm, nor connected with it, a fact not fully established.

The following letter was recently addressed to all banks and civic organizations in the state, signed by the secretary of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce:

"Gentlemen: By chance a friend in South Florida saw and sent us a copy of a printed circular issued in the name of the American Motors Export company, containing what purports to be a copy of several letters addressed to our secretary and also containing a statement that additional letters of reference are on file in this chamber. Two of the men most prominently named endeavored to procure some sort of approval of their stock selling proposition from this chamber.

"This was refused and we also refused to write any letter or give out the copy of any letter, lest it be used directly or indirectly to assist in the sale of said stock.

"The publication mentioned was wholly unauthorized by this chamber, or by any of its officers, and we have demanded that all such circulars be destroyed and that the name of this chamber be not used in any manner in this stock selling proposition. Very truly yours,

"JACKSONVILLE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

(Signed) B. R. KRESLER, Secretary and Treasurer."
